

Competition

Are you a competitive person by nature?

Do you ever think about how much you earn compared to your colleagues?

Would you encourage your children to be competitive?

Are competitive people more successful in general?

Would you agree that men are more competitive than women?

What happens when a company has no competition?

How well do you deal with defeat?

Do you work in a competitive industry?

Should a manager encourage competition between workers?

Do you think competition always makes people more productive?

Is competition between companies always a good thing?

What strategies can small businesses adopt to compete with larger companies?