

Management Styles

What would you say is the purpose of management?

Why do you think people decide to become managers?

What is the biggest mistake a manager can make?

Can an autocratic leadership style ever achieve positive results?

Why do some managers adopt a laissez-faire approach? Does it work?

What would happen to your company if all the managers suddenly left?

Have you ever worked for a good manager?

Do you think you have the skills to be a good manager?

Is it possible to be a manager and be close friends with your staff?

Does a democratic approach to leadership always work?

What sort of tasks do you think should be centralised in a large company?

In general, what would you say makes a successful manager?
